Page Descriptions with screenshot

1. Home : This page will display a welcome message and the EQAS Member Committee information along with registration, login options and contact details.

2. About Us

i) Overview : This page has detail about organization.

The screenshot shows the 'Overview' page of the EQAS (External Quality Assessment Scheme) website. The page has a green header with the EQAS logo and a navigation menu. The 'Overview' link is highlighted in the 'About Us' dropdown. The main content area features a large image of a laboratory with scientists working. Below the image, the 'Overview' section describes the EQAS as a national proficiency testing program designed to support quality assurance in blood transfusion services. It mentions that the program provides participating blood centers and laboratories with an objective assessment of their testing performance and the promotion of continual quality improvement. The program encompasses key disciplines of transfusion medicine, including immunohematology, compatibility testing, transfusion-transmitted infection (TTI) screening, hemoglobin estimation, NAT Testing and other critical parameters essential for safe transfusion practice. The page also mentions that EQAS has established itself as a leading quality assurance initiative committed to fostering a culture of excellence, harmonization, and continuous learning. By supporting Blood Centers in achieving and maintaining the highest standards of quality, the program contributes significantly to improved patient safety, regulatory compliance, and excellence in blood transfusion services.

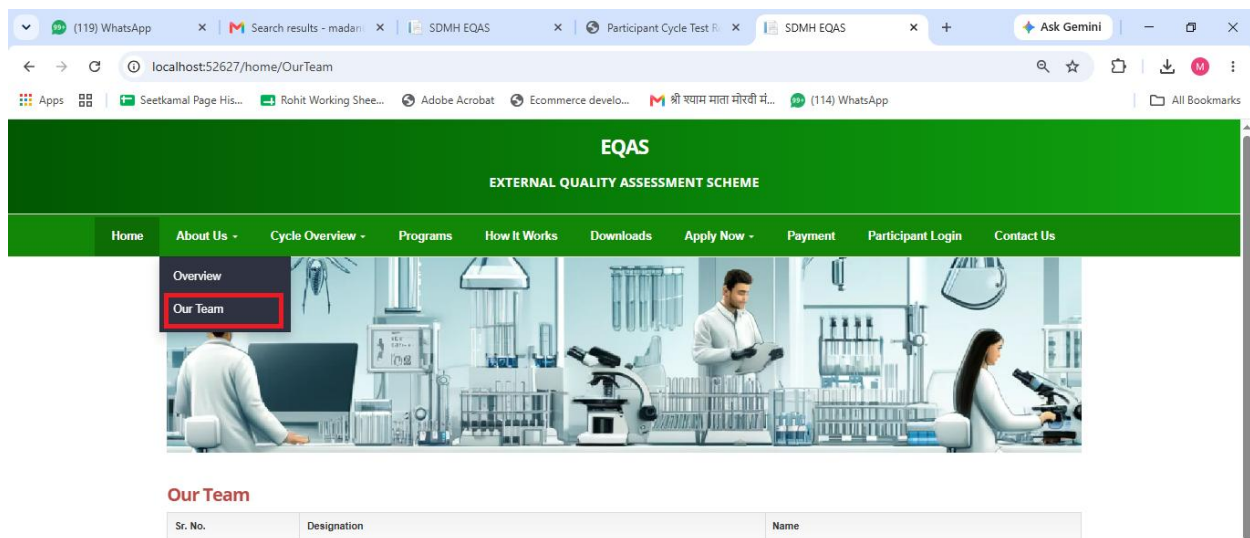

Overview

The External Quality Assessment Scheme (EQAS) is a national proficiency testing program designed to support quality assurance in blood transfusion services. Conducted by the program provides participating blood centers and laboratories with an objective assessment of their testing performance and the promotion of continual quality improvement.

The program encompasses key disciplines of transfusion medicine, including immunohematology, compatibility testing, transfusion-transmitted infection (TTI) screening, hemoglobin estimation, NAT Testing and other critical parameters essential for safe transfusion practice.

With a rapidly expanding network of participating blood centers across the country, EQAS has established itself as a leading quality assurance initiative committed to fostering a culture of excellence, harmonization, and continuous learning. By supporting Blood Centers in achieving and maintaining the highest standards of quality, the program contributes significantly to improved patient safety, regulatory compliance, and excellence in blood transfusion services.

Cycle Overview

The EQAS is a structured quality assessment process designed to evaluate Blood Centre performance through standardized samples and peer comparison. It ensures continuous improvement and compliance with national and international quality standards.

Enrollment & Registration

Participating blood centres enroll in the SDMH EQAS programme and are assigned a unique alphanumeric participant identification code. Centres may opt for relevant Programs such as TTI screening, Immunohematology, and NAT testing.

Cycle Frequency

SDMH EQAS programme is conducted thrice a year (March, July, and November), with each cycle uniquely identified to enable systematic tracking, performance monitoring, and benchmarking.

ii) General Instruction : This page all information about all instructions required for test submissions.

The screenshot shows the same EQAS website, but with the 'General Instructions' menu item highlighted with a red box. The 'General Instructions' section is titled, followed by an 'Intended Use' paragraph and an 'Instructions for performing tests' paragraph. The browser's taskbar at the bottom shows the system clock as 3:34 PM on 09/12/2026.

General Instructions

Intended Use:

This programme involves the testing of biological samples provided as part of the External Quality Assessment Scheme (EQAS). Although certain infection statuses of the samples may be known pertaining to the samples, all materials, the materials cannot be labeled as non infectious. Participants are advised to follow universal precautions during handling, storage, and testing, as with routine blood samples. The EQAS programme is intended to assess the performance of Blood Centers as per their routine practice.

Instructions for performing tests:

- EQAS samples must be tested in the same manner as routine donor or patient samples, following the standard testing strategy and protocols practiced in the laboratory.

iii) Scoring Format EQAS : This page has information about the score calculation with each parameters score.
